

CHEMISTRY

Vinegar is a common food addition used for its various uses like preserving food and leavening of bread. Vinegar contains Acetic acid which can commonly be obtained from oxidation of Ethanol. There is however a drop in the supply of ethanol from the international suppliers and an investor based in your district plans to set up an ethanol producing industry.

TASK:

Guide the investor